

International Assistant Research Executive
at Kantar Health in Paris

Open to both graduates and 3rd year placement students

Kantar Health, part of Kantar (WPP Group), is the world's largest healthcare-specialized primary research and consulting company.

Location: Paris, France

Key skills: Excellent organisation, motivation, hard working, analytical skills, good attention to detail and knowledge of Microsoft PowerPoint & Excel

Additional skills: An interest in statistics

Language skills: Native / fluent English. French at least intermediate Remuneration: Approx €1 150 per month (before tax)

Duration: From September 2012 – February 2013 (6 months)

Job description

This assistant research executive will work alongside colleagues from Europe, the Americas, and South Africa, in a dynamic and international branch of the Kantar Health group based in Paris.

Working with an international team in the Kantar Health, the assistant research executive will work on large-scale, quantitative, multi-country oncology research projects of strategic importance to European and Global HQs of pharmaceutical companies.

The assistant research executive will be responsible for:

- Coordinating international agencies
- Setting up and managing Excel budgets
- Planning and managing research schedules
- Completing detailed quantitative analysis and PowerPoint charts showing research results based on data tables
- Logic checks
- Translation.
- Achieving project specifications within the required timelines to meet client needs

The assistant research executive will have the opportunity to:

- Be part of an international leading market research company allowing you the opportunity to greatly improve your language skills
- Work as part of a lively team, supported by their line manager and an oncology specialist
- Develop their medical knowledge and technical research skills
- Become familiar with Kantar Health proprietary business solutions in market measurement, brand equity and customer retention
- Gain greater understanding of international pharma client needs

To Apply please send a CV and covering email to:

Isabelle.barroso@kantarhealth.com with the title of your email showing:

"Assistant Market Research Exec stage September 2012"